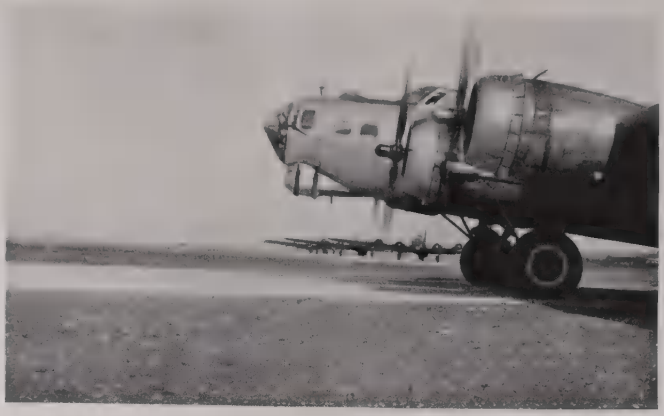
FOUR OF A KIND

Lew Lyle
C.H. SCHULE
1945



THE 379th Bomb Group completed 300 bombing missions over Nazi Europe—to which the average layman shrugs his shoulders and says, " so what ? " It doesn't sound like much when you say it quick—300 missions—but it has taken two years, cost the lives of a lot of damned good men and has meant an average working day of 16 hours for the men on the line.

Two years and 300 missions have brought many and varied changes in the group. From a small and obscure bomb group on the salt flats of Utah, it has risen to the top brackets of bombing circles in the European Theatre of Operations. It hasn't been easy, this was and still is the toughest theatre of operations in the world and competition has been keen. The air war in Europe has become decidedly easier, but it is still a dangerous and tedious task to bomb Festung Europa.

The Eighth Air Force has produced more heroes and has garnered more decorations than any other unit in the history of the American Armed Forces. This group has produced its share of those heroes—men like Paul Breeding, Mike Arooth, Bob Fegan, Charlie Sans, Sam Battalio, Tom Carruth, Skippy Corwin and Red Wyckle, Bill Jones, Cliff Erickson and a host of others.

Pilots like " Rip " Rohr, Bob Kittel, " Swede " Carlson, Bill Sipes and Mark Elliott have led the group to nearly every major target in Germany and the occupied countries. " Togglin' Ed " Millson, Joe Glaser, Joe Brown and Paul Crum have established a reputation second to none for bombing accuracy. Formations of 379th B-17s have ranged from the beaches of Normandy across Europe to Marienburg. St. Nazaire, better known as flak city, Big " B," bloody Schweinfurt and the hell that was Oschersleben have been taken in stride. The group has absorbed the Luftwaffe's Sunday punch and proved that it wasn't enough.

On the ground the engineering section has consistently led the Eighth Air Force in efficiency. Ground crews have nursed planes through non-abortive streaks as long as a London theatre queue. " Swamp Fire," " The Hellion," " Blues in the Night," " Ragin' Red," " Stump Jumper," " Ol' Gappy," and " Birmingham Jewel," to name only a few, bear mute testimony to the brilliant record of the 379th ground crewmen.

In April, 1944, this bomb group scored the only " operational grand slam " in the history of the Eighth Air Force, leading all other groups in every phase of heavy bombardment. This unprecedented achievement, which was a combination of bombing accuracy, greatest number of aircraft over targets, lowest losses, largest bomb tonnage dropped and engineering efficiency was attained while the group was commanded by Colonel Maurice A. Preston, now a combat wing commander.

Of the original combat crewmen who participated in the group's first mission, an attack on the sub pens at St. Nazaire, in May, 1943, four took part in the 300th. They were Jim Edwards, " Togglin' Ed " Millson, " Gibby " Gibson and Charlie Sans. Two other originals are still on the field, Lt. Colonel Lloyd C. Mason of Ruhr Valley, and " Panama Hattie " fame, and Paul Pennock who recently returned to the group for a second tour of ops.

Colonel Lewis E. Lyle, our C.O. and one of the Eighth's outstanding pioneer airmen, led the group's 300th attack. Veteran of more than 65 official missions, he was flying combat in the ETO when this group was still on paper!

To complete the picture, we have sent some 9,000 aircraft over enemy targets and dropped more than 23,300 tons of bombs in 300 missions. There it is, the statistical side of the ledger, but the things you and I want to remember are not on paper. A crew chief watching a riddled formation return from Schweinfurt and softly murmuring, " There ain't enough planes in that formation ; I wonder if my ship is O.K. ? "—the day Walter Euwer and his crew went down—the bombardier who after his first mission pinned his wings on the crew chief and said, " brother, do you wanna' swap jobs ? "—a tail gunner whose guns went out on him over Wilhelmshaven, and sitting back in the tail he gave a running commentary over the intercom. as to how the raid was progressing—mad Mike Roskovitch, the first man to complete a tour of ops in the ETO, and who became a legend in the Eighth Air Force before his untimely death on a routine flight in Scotland—those are the things we will remember, not statistics. Stories like these are the real history of the group, but only when someone has drunk not too wisely perhaps but damned well, will many of them be told—in a hundred bull sessions from Maine to California. The 379th Bomb Group men and planes—doing a job and doing it well.
